

Global Petroleum — Risk Alert Timeline

Alert Window: Today · Generated: 2026-03-11 18:23:44

Situation Brief

The current threat level in the energy market is high, primarily driven by escalating tensions in the Iran conflict, which accounts for 77% of the observed supply uncertainty. As a result, WTI and Brent crude prices are rebounding, currently at $86.15 and $87.77 respectively, indicating immediate market implications from disrupted supply chains and heightened geopolitical risks. Key developments to monitor include Iran's control over the Strait of Hormuz and its impact on oil exports, as well as the ongoing disruptions in Gulf shipping routes and Qatar's LNG market.
